

SIG Meeting - Digital and Telehealth

The APS Digital and Telehealth SIG is an international group of clinicians, clinical informatics specialists, and researchers dedicated to the study of the role of emerging technologies to change behavior and facilitate the study of mind-body interactions and biopsychosocial pathways influencing health and disease.

The SIG meeting is an opportunity to explore shared interests and generate actionable ideas that can expand awareness among APS membership of the utility of digital health, telehealth and other emerging technologies (e.g., AI, VR/AR) in clinical and research applications. Topics for discussion include: 1) Identification of possible future keynote speakers on digital health; 2) Planning for a pre-conference workshop; 3) Plans for quarterly virtual SIG meetings with presentations; 4) Election of new SIG leaders.